I thrive by leveraging my strategic and critical thinking in conjunction with my technical abilities to identify problems and provide solutions. Working with my team, roadblocks and headaches become an opportunity to create efficiency and scalability, resulting in time and money saved.

There are fewer things on this earth that make me more happy than efficient and effective processes and procedures. I thrive upon maximizing, making 'good' things the best that they can be.

Where there isn't anything, I create something.

I am a learner and creator. If I don't know how to do something, I will proactively seek out the resources to learn. I have a very analytical and strategic mind, resulting in problem solving and the creation of new ideas, procedures, and products.

I'm proud of revolutionizing the data standardization, collection, and reconciliation of a children's therapy business with over 120 providers for accurate billing and payroll purposes. I also automated countless processes and procedures throughout the organization with the use of Google Scripts and advanced excel formulas.

I spent 5 years developing a University travel department's systems and processes, enabling them to expand and scale with very few employees. This was accomplished through website development, automation & creation of systems, interdepartmental reorganization, data analysis, collection and presentation.

How can I help your company grow?
